Standing Tall & Modern Day Heroes

First, when you stand tall you're so focused that you feel invincible.

Now don't allow that thought to slip past too quickly. You have never experienced that sort of bold abandon because you've not allowed yourself to be in a challenging situation. Most play it safe. It's more convenient to let some one else do the talking. It's easier to let other's climb to the heights and risk the fall.

However, when the day arrives and you decide to stand tall for what's right, your focus on that all-important issue will give you a feeling of invincibility. The odds will mean nothing. You will be unimpressed with other folds sitting in front of you. Neither credentials nor titles will intimidate you. Your convictions will carry you forward in a strength not your own. Like the apostle Paul, you will have become God's voice for that hour.

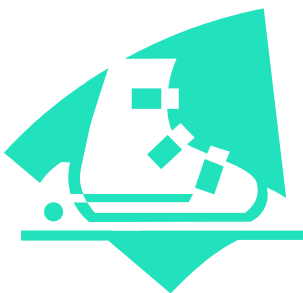

Second, when you stand tall you are so passionate that you don't realize your ultimate impact.

Standing for the principle at stake is all that matters. When Paul of Tarus had his hearing before Festus and King Agrippa as well as the ruling monarchs, the audience simply got up and left at the completion of Paul's speech. On the exterior it looked like the hearing had been a waste of time. Yet who can say? Who knows what King Agrippa dreamed of that night and in the nights that followed Paul's speech? I wouldn't be surprised if compromising Festus continued to squirm at Paul's compelling witness. Only God know the true impact of Paul's heroic stand that day by the sea. Ultimately, only God know the impact of yours as well.

(Taken from 'A Man of Grace and Grit PAUL', by Charles Swindoll)

I would like to take this time to thank the Central Ohio Emmaus Board for standing tall, and the community for supporting Emmaus activities this past year. It has been a year of stepping outside the box and allowing God's conviction to work not only in the hearts of those who served faithfully, also those who allowed God's grace to touch their hearts and change their lives.

Social Committee Needs Your Help!!

Do you remember coming to your walk on Thursday night and enjoying a meal with your sponsor? It was one of the first acts of agape you were going to receive on your weekend. Now the community is in need of people or share groups who are willing to help do this meal. Help is needed for the January Men's Walk and the February Women's Walk. If you or your share group would be willing to contribute to these or future Sponsorship meals, please contact Amy Lewis at james@cten.net or at 937-653-7757.
